

Hira Ruskin

Hira Ruskin currently serves as North Well Health's Vice President of Operations at Health Management overseeing operations for the division. She joined Northwell in 2017 as the Senior Director responsible for business development and enrollment for Health Solutions, the population health care management division of Northwell. Hira has spent most of her career as a senior health care executive in marketing, strategy, business development and operations. In her most recent role, she is responsible for Northwell's Medicaid Health Home which is a community-based care coordination program servicing 10,000 members across Long Island, NYC and Westchester. Hira is also responsible for several Medicaid initiatives across Northwell's health system related to community programs and building appropriate access to care by leveraging resources both internal/external to Northwell's ecosystem.

Prior to joining Northwell she served as AVP of Community Programs at Villagecare, leading the operations and care delivery transformation of the community-based programs in New York City which included Health Home, Adult Protective Services, Medical Model Day Programs and DSRIP. Hira spent the earlier part of her career supporting growth for home care agencies based out of New York City.

Hira received her Bachelors of Science in Communications from City University of New York and Executive Masters in Business Administration from Hofstra University. She currently is also Vice President of the Health Home Coalition and the Long Island RPC.
