

Sal Ferro

Sal Ferro is a respected business leader, public servant, and dedicated philanthropist whose impact spans both industry and community. As the former owner and CEO of Alure Home Improvements, Sal built a highly successful company and earned national recognition, including an appearance on ABC's Extreme Makeover: Home Edition, where he helped transform homes for families in need.

Deeply committed to giving back, Sal has played an active role in raising significant funds for nonprofit organizations and currently serves on several boards, including The Clark Gillies Foundation, Family Service League, The Farmingdale College Foundation, and The Ferro Foundation, his own charitable organization.

Founded in 2017 by Sal and his family, The Ferro Foundation supports low-income veterans and senior citizens by funding critical home improvements, while also providing scholarships for underserved Long Island students pursuing higher education.

In 2021, Sal was elected to the Town of Huntington Board, where he served four years with a strong focus on constituent services and enhancing quality of life for residents. He continues to support the community as a member of the Town of Huntington's Opioid and Addiction Task Force, advocating for prevention, recovery, and resources for those affected by substance use.

Sal's leadership extends across numerous civic and professional organizations. He is a past president and active member of the Long Island Builders Institute, serves on the Board of Trustees of Huntington Hospital, and is a founding board member of Empire National Bank. He also previously served on the Town of Huntington Zoning Board of Appeals.

In recognition of his outstanding philanthropy and service, Sal has received numerous honors, including the Harry Chapin Award from the Long Island Association and the Teddy Roosevelt Award from Huntington Hospital.

Sal resides in Commack with his spouse, Molly, their six children, and two dogs.
